

Software Development for Mobile Devices

Submission for Assignment A6.1P

User Stories versus Scenarios

User Stories are highly structured Scenarios. Personally, I would prefer User Stories to Scenarios because:

- It is more readable compare to Scenarios, since it has been formatted.
- Developers understand who is the target, what is the task and the goal easily.

However, the Scenarios is good for developers to envision problems that the user are dealing with. It provides the information in depth so that developers can see a big picture of the project.